“RAMSES THE GREAT AND THE GOLD OF THE PHAROHS”

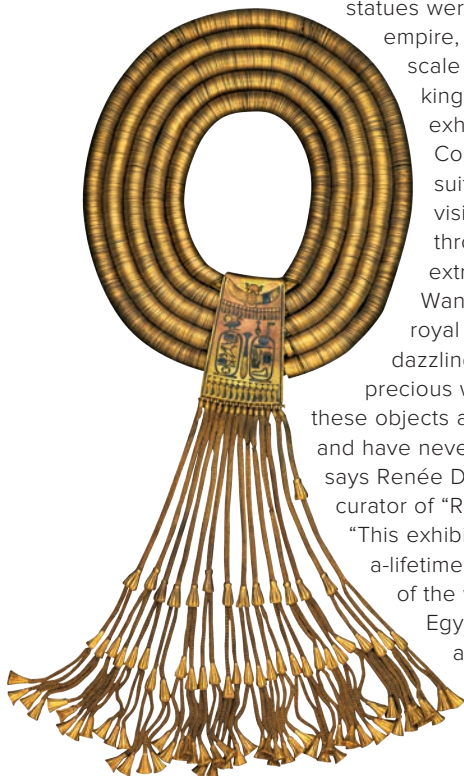

Embark on an immersive journey into ancient Egypt with “Ramses the Great and the Gold of the Pharaohs” at the de Young museum, which explores the life and accomplishments of Ramses II, whose reign many historians consider the apex of Egyptian culture. Under his rule, enormous temples, obelisks and statues were erected across the empire, the largest in both scale and number of any king. The de Young, the exhibit’s exclusive West Coast venue, is uniquely suited to transport visitors to the era through an array of 180 extraordinary artifacts.

Wander amongst towering royal sculptures and see dazzling jewelry as well as precious works of art. “Many of these objects are newly discovered and have never left Egypt before,” says Renée Dreyfus, organizing curator of “Ramses the Great.”

“This exhibition is truly a once-in-a-lifetime experience as many of the works will return to Egyptian museums and are unlikely to travel again for decades.”
